

BREAKING THE BIAS

Alice Civil Engineer

Alice is a chartered civil engineer with over 5 years post-graduate experience working for a main contractor. She has worked on rail and highways projects - most notably Werrington Grade Separation, Barking Riverside tube station and currently A11 upgrades at Wymondham. Alice always enjoyed Geography, Maths and Art at school; civil engineering was a good mix of being creative, having right or wrong answers and developing the environment around us. Female role models within the industry are on the rise and hopefully paving the way for many more women to follow.
