The book “BRAVE” lays a great foundation for a discussion about modern-day slavery. The book is easy to read and features attractive illustrations that will capture children's attention and imagination.

‘Brave’ is a very well written and beautifully illustrated book which is a valuable resource for parents, guardians and teachers to raise awareness of Modern Slavery and to prepare children for the reality and challenges of the modern world, explained in an enlightening and enjoyable way.

Written by the Dewryn Community Interest Company and published in partnership with Invisible Traffick “Brave” is our first book focusing on the pressing challenge of modern slavery aimed at 6 – 11 years old. It will allow both parents and teachers to discuss a very sensitive issue in a child-friendly way.

The book focuses on the disturbing experience of Bella, whose poverty-stricken mother is tricked into allowing her young child to be trafficked overseas. She is finally rescued from those who are exploiting her through the intervention of her precious teddy bear “BRAVE” and a very caring coffee roasting machine named “RORY”.

The storyline is fictional, but it reflects the real-life traumas of those who are currently suffering from the scourge of modern slavery.

“The Brave Book is a wonderful resource for schools which fits so well with the Welsh curriculum to help pupils to become ethical, informed citizens who are ready to be citizens of Wales and the world. Brave helps teachers support pupils in developing their own thinking and understanding of modern-day slavery through a well written book, which is beautifully illustrated with thought provoking images.”

John Meredith Director of Education the Diocese of Swansea and Brecon
Working with Impact Wales we will be providing bespoke user-friendly curriculum resources based around the book “BRAVE” that will allow teachers to take control of their time management and resources which will enhance learning and have a direct impact of raising standards.

Learning through the medium of “BRAVE” these books will ignite children and pupil’s curiosity and enthusiasm around issues of justice, life issues and will provide the foundation understanding and engagement required to allow young people to become ethical, informed citizens as well developing and improving early literacy skills. Also, using this book “Brave” to enhance reading skills in both the English and Welsh language.

The information and identification with Brave the bear, Rory the rooster and Bella will also develop empathy and knowledge to support and keep them safe.

As part of our partnership we will include:
- An outline of how the book “Brave: a Story of Freedom & Friendship” addresses the demands of the Curriculum
- Provide a teacher’s guide to “Brave – a Story of Freedom & Friendship “
- How to create classroom resources for “Brave – a Story of Freedom & Friendship”

Having access to these resources will provide you with ready to use high-quality research-based curriculum resources which will not just save time, it will make it easier for delivering knowledge-rich and engaging lessons. These resources will help children and pupils acquire the knowledge and skills they need on this important subject. We can also deliver an introductory lesson as well as part of the partnership.

Dewryn is working in partnership with Invisible Traffick who have a proven track record of delivering successful school’s based educational projects throughout the island of Ireland. Our joint aim is to help young people to recognise the signs and dangers of Human Trafficking and to help vulnerable adults, including “at-risk” young people from being exploited.

“Dewryn” is a Community Interest Company based in Wales. It has been established on the fundamental Christian principle that all human beings have value and are to be treated equally. Consequently ‘Dewryn’ (Welsh for Brave) is committed to raising awareness and understanding of human trafficking among children, young people and adults in age-appropriate ways enabling them to become ethically informed citizens through the provision of high-quality educational resources.

‘Invisible Traffick’ is a registered charity organisation based in Northern Ireland. Invisible Traffick is dedicated to combating Modern Day Slavery, both locally and internationally. ‘Invisible Traffick’s’ passion is to make the invisible, visible by raising awareness through the delivery of bespoke educations programmes in schools, churches and the wider community.
